“ Robin and Family,

I wanted to send my condolences for your loss. I knew Beef probably for more than 50 years. I knew him in high school when he played in the bands and got to know him when I came back to Beckley and started practicing law. I saw one of the other comments about how Beef was involved in starting pre-need funerals in West Virginia. I can tell you some stories about that process. Paul Flanagan, Beef and I spent a lot of time traveling around dealing with the legal issues and trying to make it work. The thing that I fondly remember about that process was Beef's never failing sense of humor. He turned difficult and tense situations into laughs and giggles. Beef was one-of-a-kind and all who knew him will attest to that. Because of that his loss is significant to everyone. Robin I know that you did more than could be expected of any spouse in dealing with Beef's illnesses. I salute you for your dedication and love to him and the fact that you kept him around for the rest of us to enjoy. I hope the entire Whitener family will accept Viki's and my sincere condolences because we knew Beef and can understand how much he meant to you.

“ My deepest condolences to the Whitener family on your loss. David was an individual in the truest sense of the word. His manner of conducting business and living life was something to behold. The times we spent together at Stewart Enterprises were some of the best of my career in that I learned so much from David. He taught this by-the-book accountant at the time that people really matter and that a good meal at the Waffle House is all you really need. He will be missed.

“ Thoughts and prayers to Robin and Family. Such a unique man in so many ways. A leader in the industry who could not only talk the talk but could back it up. Always seem to learn a good saying every time I was around him. Many that I still use today. If he was a friend he was a true friend. The best way to describe him in my opinion is with a song
"I did it my way"

“ There are so many memories I could share. My first impression of David was not the best but I came to learn that he was the real deal. He was a teacher, mentor and friend to so many funeral and cemetery professionals. He didn't always tell you what you wanted to hear, but what you needed to hear. When I first took over the region with Stewart Enterprises as funeral operations, his advice to me was, "It ain't no democracy."

When I worked with him on a committee at Restland, he borrowed a suburban, due to his limited vision, he asked me to drive us to lunch. Upon returning to the cemetery, he said "pull over, let me drive." I reluctantly let him behind the wheel, assuring me he could see just fine. "Just let me know if I'm about to hit a curb," he said. The windows were down, as he was giving me the talking tour of the cemetery. I could see the approaching sprinkler on my side, but he was talking so much that he didn't hear me call out his name several times as I got soaking wet.

When I was researching a set of drums for my son's Christmas present, David was my google. He taught me everything I needed to know and went with me to the music store to buy them. He became a friend and I appreciated his knowledge of people and his credentials on life itself.

“ David knew exactly how to motivate people with his speeches. I worked at Floral Garden the first time I heard him speak. He was such an icon. I could not hardly wait for his next speech. Boscoe Fulcher interduced me and him. I felt so honored. I will keep his family in my prayers.

Rest In Peace David. I will see you again.

“ My deepest sympathy to Robin and the family. May it bring some comfort to know that David’s legacy will endure, as his teaching and philosophies will have a lasting impact on the people he touched. The times I was fortunate enough to spend with David changed me forever. He has a unique ability to turn obstacles into opportunities and business trips into treasured memories. To take from one of his philosophies people appreciated how much he knew but loved him for how much he cared.

“ My thoughts and prayers go out to each of you. David was a great friend and mentor during my time at Stewart Enterprises. I have so many fond memories of him that I reflect on even today. He always knew how to cut through the politics of corporate America and get his point across.

I remember my first meeting with David in Williamsburg, VA at our annual Mid Atlantic meeting. David put on a presentation that made us laugh and wonder “who is this new guy?” Thinking he would be fired before the end of the week. Little did I know that would be one of many memorable meetings with David. That was the beginning of a friendship that I will always treasure.
