“ Dear Mike and Sandy: Please accept our deepest sympathy in the loss of your son, Austin. There is no grief that compares to the grief of losing a child. The days will be long and the nights will be endless for days to come. We pray that your faith and wonderful memories of your son will sustain you. I lost my daughter, Julie, in 2003, and even though the gut-wrenching grief has subsided, I'm still asking Why? We just take one day at a time and try to be there for our other children because they grieve, too. We offer our sincere condolences to you and your family. Always, Mary###imported-begin###Mary and Buddy Duncan###imported-end###

“ I know that this is a sad time but we have to remember that this is a time happiness to know that one more ANGEL is with our LORD in heaven watching over us. I can not wait for the day to see my father Jesus for there will be no more sadness and pain....As hard as it is try and turn your tears of sadness to tears of joy because he is okay in Jesus's Arms and we will see him agian. God Loves you and he is always there for us all we have to do is ask.###imported-begin###Angela Atwood###imported-end###
