“ Dear Les & Lynn & FAMILY,

*Having lost an adult child of our own we can understand your sorrow. No one can measure or even feel your loss at this time, as these moments in our lives remain so private, but we did want you to know that we are thinking about you and holding you close to our hearts and in our prayers. We are hoping that our thoughts and prayers of you can add to the strength you need to cope with such a difficult event .
Again, thinking of you daily.*

*With heartfelt sympathy,

“ Brent, Betsy, Marsha and Greg,
We are so sorry for the profound loss of your sweet girl. Austin showed such valiant courage facing adversity. She was wise beyond her years, and such an inspiration to others, always compassionate and generous with her cheerful nature and radiant smile. I remember her curiosity about our special Cory's mental deficiencies. She was only about six when she asked me if he would ever "talk better." When I told her probably not, she looked at his eyes so intently, and then at me. She brought me to tears when she optimistically replied, "But when he does talk, he will tell you, I love you, Mommy!" That was pure Austin, always looking for the best in each of us.

“ I never had the privilege to meet Austin in real life but her Dad shared so much of their times together over the years...the joys and pains of Austin's struggle...I honestly have never seen a more dedicated father to a daughter than Austin's dad Brent...She was everything to him...and he was everything to her...When the notice of Austin's passing happened I cried for her like noone I have ever cried for in my life...she actually touched alot of us deep in our hearts more than i think she may know..

God Bless the Smith family and know that Austin still surrounds us and will never ever be forgotten...her story and her struggle could and should be a life lesson inspiration to each and every one of us here on this Earth..

“ I met Austin through her grandmother, Marsha & grandfather, Greg. Both incredible girls & guy! Whenever I saw Austin, she had this angelic smile and personality. She made everyone feel good around her. Then I met Brent! Incredible Dad! That is sharing God's love! ❤️ Precious memories for her family in this time of grief.

“ I met Austin spiritually through Barbara Puzey, friend of Austin's grandmother Marsha. Have been praying for Austin and her family continually. Enjoyed following her FB journey of love and hope for several years. Austin has touched and taught so many how to stay strong and keep going. Her faith in God never faltered. Even though she's smiling in heaven now, and her family and friends are left to grieve a beautiful little girl, we all know she is free and where she belongs.

“ I am so sorry that Austin lost her battle, I always followed her progress on Facebook from across the pond. What an inspirational little girl she was and I'm so very sad for you all. May her memory be a Blessing.

“ I also never met Austin in person. But one day Marsha shared a story. Austin was raising money for Cancer research. She and her friend had a lemonade stand. I was amazed by this precious little girl. Who by the way looks so much like her Dad and her grandmother. On the day I read of her raising money for children like herself..I fell hopelessly in love. Austin is an Amazing, brave, charitable, beautiful, wonderful person. Everything a parent wishes for. Betsy and Brent she is and will always be an inspiration to us all. Blessing to all of you and yours. I am going to make a donation to cancer research in Austin name, I hope that is OK..Let me know if there is a particle cause. God Bless. To Austin little sister, never forget you still have a sister....

“ Although I never met Austin in person I felt I knew her through her father's Facebook posts. Such a courageous young lady with a contagious smile. She has been and will continue to be a major inspiration to myself and many others worldwide. My condolences to the Austin's family and friends. The world lost a precious young girl but heaven has gained a perfect angel.

“ Me and Austin's Dad, Brent attended a yard sale at Austin's Mom, Betsy's house, and Austin was so excited to be having her very own yard sale!! Austin was so motivated and happy to sell as she was raising money for charity. Despite Austin's battle with cancer spanning years she only thought of others and their struggles as she was a giver, selfless, not a taker. I was very privileged to meet Austin a few times as Austin was a ray of sunshine on a cloudy day..... she was all that is good in this world....Love you always Austin....

“ I met Austin in 2014 when she came to my Zumba Kids class with her grandma, Marsha. She loved to dance, and even when she was exhausted, she always smiled and she kept on going. Her sweet, sweet spirit lit up the class and the world. There is no doubt that Austin was and is an angel! 😇🙏❤️
