“ I go to Langston Baptist Church, and we have had Aydin on our prayer list since he was several weeks old. I know it is hard to understand why things happen the way they do. I can't answer that. We may never know why. God knows the answer to all and he is there to comfort us far beyond what we can imaigine. I pray that you will all stay close to God and I pray that he will give you peace and comfort knowing that there is one more Angel that has his wings. There is no more pain or hurting for little Aydin. I can not begin to imainge what you are going though. My God is the almighty healer of hearts. If you have not already, Please ask him for his comfort and guidance. I pray that God will put people in your path that have already gone through what you are going through, that you will make blessed friends that will be a support system from here on out to help each other and be there for each other and that others that will be facing the same that you will be able to help them get through and have strength as well. I pray that God wraps his arms around your family and that you will have a stronger love for each other and a fast healing of your hearts.##imported-begin##Angela##imported-end##

“ You are in my thoughts and prayers. I think about you so much. Aydin will always be remembered as the "true hero" he was. Fighting the disease and the chemo is harder than anyone can imagine, and as a parent we can't help them fight. May God Bless your family and hold you in the palm of his hands.##imported-begin##Jenni Black##imported-end##

“Hearing about Aydin touched my heart. Sometimes parents take for granted the gift they have in their children. There have been times in the past when I have done this myself. Aydin's story taught me to count my blessings every single day. He affected my life in a very special way in which nobody has. God bless you all.##imported-begin##Tara Stotts##imported-end##

“ To Aydin's family: I am so sorry to hear of Aydin's passing. He was a very special little boy with extra special parents. I pray that God will give you the strength to forge on and to remember what a blessing he was to you. His time with you was much too short, but the love he gave you was enough for many lifetimes. I will continue to pray for you. Love, Linda Gainey##imported-begin##Linda H Gainey##imported-end##
