“ Brandon,

There is so much i want to say but I'm going to keep it short. We met three years ago now on meetme and ever since you have been my best friend I'm so glad after three years we got to meet in person I'm so happy i got pictures of us so now i have something to look back on. I miss you and i love you so much i wish in the last month before your passing we would have talked more I know your not in pain anymore and suffering not a day or second or minute will go by i don't wish it was just a nightmare and I'd wake up to a text from you you are so dearly missed and very much loved you will not be forgotten ❤️

“There’s a room in my heart designated for you, I hung pictures on the walls and painted them your favorite shade of blue. I invited you to stay as long as you’d like and I secretly hoped it’d be a long time but people grow apart and story’s end, and time isn’t always the most reliable friend, so inside my heart there will always be a space for you and the door will always be open incase you want to walk back through.”

You will always have a space in my heart that will continue to be lit. I love you brother, till Valhalla.

My condolences to the Urban family, and his beautiful daughters I have not been able to meet. Brandon was my best friend, my essential soul mate growing up, nothing ever kept in secrecy between us. I regret allowing the excuse of life get in the way of us connecting these past few years. I wish I could be there today to give him one last embrace as he embarks on his journey in the afterlife.

“ Brandon, I've shared so many memories and happiest moments with you. I remember a few months ago when you spent the weekend over at my apartment and I taught you how to make sushi because you wanted to learn and how we watched John Wick 3 because you didn't see it yet. Im going to miss all the times I took you out to Dave n Busters & Stars n Strikes just to play arcade games with you. Im going to miss how I let you borrow my video games and you talked to me about them and how much you enjoyed them. I love you so much Brandon. Im going to miss my big brother so much. May you rest in peace and know you were loved.
