“ As the holidays approach, my thoughts sadly start to increase. The "family" isn't the same without you here. I feel like I'm sitting back and watching time pass by before my eyes and I can't find you. I love and miss you still... 🍷💔 Me

Mrs Wroe, when I was a young Police Officer in Baltimore back in 1972, your husband was my Sergeant. Dale was a kind and understanding man and I miss him to this day. He was a good man. J

“ Today is December 29th 2018. Bucky just called me. I knew something was wrong. Ted passed away Christmas day. He's funeral is tomorrow, but then I guess you knew that. I went to Maryland for Christmas. No snow but a long trip with lots of traffic. Teri and Danny are still struggling, but in better shape than last year. Your greatgrand daughter is getting so big. She saw your picture on the outside of my tablet and there were questions. Randy and Hayley have a cute 18 mo. old. That's all for them! I have no idea why, but this was a really hard holiday for me. I guess I'm having some medical problems and that was on my mind. It's still so hard being alone. I miss you so much. My heart aches...

“ Today is your Birthday. I gave you a present of a son 57 years ago, named Steve. Since you passed away we have had a family reunion on both of your days. Steve was working and we didn't have a get together. My heart was sad. We may be able to celebrate later on. Things just didn't seem the same. I just got back from MD. Teri was due to be operated on but surgery was postponed due to blood pressure problems. I'll return on August 17th. I hope all goes well and she gets through this successfully. I need some moral support and I'm counting on you to be by my side to help me stay strong through all of this like you always have. Dale, I miss you so much. I've not gotten use to being alone and I guess I never will. Some days are worse than others. I keep trying to get my act together but sometime the challenges are hard and I am always second guessing myself. Stay by me, I love you 🍷

“ Today is March 4, 2017. The anniversary of your passing has gone, and your funeral service was yesterday three years ago. No one called...today I searched a closet looking for a checkerboard that Steve made in high school. I want to clean it up and gift it back to him so he can teach Kayleigh how to play. I've been doing that lately. I want to make sure that I can personally give the things that hold a special meaning to me, to the ones I love. I know there will be chaos after I die to clean things up and someone will miss my important memories. While I was in the closet a few of your clothes were in there. I knew they were there but never took the time to give them away. Today was different, I don't know why? I smelled every piece and looked in every pocket hoping a piece of something you touched was in there. You were too neat. A black suit didn't even have the jacket pockets unclipped. The only time you wore it was to Steve & Brenda's wedding. Over 10 yrs ago. It hurt my heart to give it away. I looked at the last two things in the closet and decided not to give them away. It was a heavy coat and your trench coat.(of all things). You looked so handsome in your trench coat. Then again you were always handsome to me. Dale, I love you so much it's still so hard getting use to you not being here. Our Anniversary is coming up soon, my heart will miss you some more.Someday I will be better. Love Me...

“ It's December 30th, 2016, almost 3 years has passed and in some ways it seems so long ago, until my heart starts to hurt for you then it seems like yesterday. I miss you so much no one knows how the loneliness makes you feel. Everyone laughs when I say some days I go without speaking. If only I could speak to you. I do in my mind, but you don't answer. Steve and Brenda are coming for New Years to bring in 2017. I wish you were here. Watch for the balloons, were sending our love. Forever in my heart...love you Me❤️

“ It's the 28th of August, 2016. I can hardly believe that 2 1/2 years has passed. Looking at your pictures I find it so hard to believe that I'm still here on this earth without you. There are some days I don't think I can go on. My heart just hurts so bad. Then another day comes and goes and before you know it another month has gone by. I can't figure out way I'm still here. I want to be with you...I don't want to make the family sad and grieve, I just want to stop grieving and hold you. Love ya!

“ I got out of rehab in time to celebrate with the family at your dedication ceremony. There is a bench in the median strip near your white crepe myrtle, which had bloomed for the first time. Everyone had balloons and we wrote a message on them and then released them. We all miss you very much. Happy Birthday in heaven...

“ This is my second Thanksgiving with out you. I'll be spending it with Steve and Brenda again this year.It's said that this is the time of year where we give thought to what we are thankful for. Our kids never cease to amaze me, Dale. You would be so proud of them. They have gotten so smart. I'm starting to rely on their opinion more and more,just like I did you. I miss you so much. It's unbelievable how lonely I feel. It doesn't get any easier no matter how much I try to overcome it. Stay with me...Love ya!

“ It's been 18 months since you passed and I feel like it was yesterday. I didn't have enough time to say all the things I wanted to tell you. The most important thing at the time was getting you out of the hospital and home where you wanted to be. I thought I had more time...God thought differently. You looked so at peace and worry free. I know it was a concern that I would have a difficult time when you passed and I did, but as time has passed you took better care in preparing for your passing than even you thought. Thank you. I miss you so much I find it really hard getting use to the loneliness.As I sit with you now know that my love for you is stronger than ever...until I come home. Love, Me

“ In Memory of My Dad Dale

*If I only had five minutes the day you passed away,
I would have had time to tell you all the things I needed to say.*

*I never got to tell you how much you mean to me,
Or that you were the best dad, better than any man could be.*

*The last time that I talked to you
I wish I would have known.
I would have said I love you,
and kept you on the phone.*

*If I only had five minutes,
the morning you passed away,
I'd give you one last hug so tight*

*I'd kiss your cheek and take your hand and tell you it's okay to go
And tell you that I'll miss you,
more than you'll ever know.*

*Before you even knew it,
you were standing at heavens gate.
Now God has called upon you,
To leave this life behind you,
And enjoy all of heavens beautiful things.
So wait for me in heaven Dad,
Don't let me come alone.
The day the angels come for me,
Please be there to bring me home.*

I love you dad... Teri

“ Please accept my sincere condolences for the loss of you loved one. During difficult times like these it is good to know that we can turn to our heavenly father Jehovah God (Psalms 83:18) for the comfort and strength needed to get through. The bible says he is the "God of comfort that comforts us in all our tribulation". (2 Corinthian 1:3&4) The bible also gives us hope for the future at John 5:28, "do not be amazed at this because the hour is coming when all those in the memorial tombs will hear his voice and come out". We will have chance to be with our loved ones again because Jesus says In this scripture that he will resurrect them. I hope these words will be encouraging to your family and you will continue to turn to Jehovah God.
