“ Heaven gained such a trooper!!! He was one of my favorite patients and I know he loved me too. I will miss this man. Although I only knew him such a short while there was no question how good of a human he was. He could be so cute and stubborn at the same time too! I love the little peripheral look he would shoot to Alice (best caregiver EVER) when I would tell him the things he needed to be doing at home for therapy. That look would say just a little " I hear ya but I'm still gonna do what I want to do" with a little subtle stubborn grin lurking just behind that sweet smile. Hope he is up in Heaven sitting just the way he wants reunited with his wife. He will be missed by many all of us ... and especially by Bruitus.

“ We always went to Cracker Barrel for breakfast. We would look over the menu for 10-15 minutes and yet we always ordered the same thing. Dad and I both would order the "Uncle Hershel". Sugar cured ham, scrambled eggs with all the sides. Those times were my favorite with Dad as there were no distractions, just a son and his father. We called those times our business meetings. Love you Dad you were taken too fast.
