“ When I think of Chris, I immediately smile not only because she was precious, but because of her innocence at times & one I can think of vividly.

She gave me a ride to work at Gullyfield one day and about killed me. Not from wreckless driving nor from boredom but because she thought she had her air conditioner on high. Indeed, it was on high and she had all of the windows up as tight as they could be. Why she hadn't realized that high fan wasn't blowing cold air was beyond me. Her a/c was broken and the heat in those air vents was hotter than a two dollar pistol in that MB smothering Hell-Flaming-Inferno day! I still wonder til this day if she ever realized it was broken? lol Chris was a doll and she'll always be remembered by me in such a loving way. Thank you girl, for allowing me to be a small part of your beautiful life. ❤️❤️👍❤️
