Dustin Brent Stanton age 33, died Saturday December 22, 2018.

Dusty was born February 8, 1985 in Sumter, SC, son of Kathryn (Mike) Hanna and Brent Stanton.

Surviving in addition to his mother and father are step father Dan Koslosky, sister, Ashley (Michael) Dispenziere, brother Ryan (Suzy) Stanton, nephew Wesley Stanton, niece Bella Stanton, grandmother Lynne Korb three aunts, two uncles, many cousins and godmother Dianne McClary.

Dusty was preceded in death by his grandmother Mildred McClam.

Dustys' life was perfectly described by his uncle, Will Korb.

"Dusty burned his cigarette to the filter, he lived wide open and liked it that way... He made every party more fun... every adventure more dangerous... he was who he was and owned it. He would out drink you, out live you, and be up before you in the morning to rag you about how you couldn't keep up. He rode waves, anything with wheels, and fought in cages. He was the most fearless person I have ever known. I helped make him that way from the time he was born. We fought hard and loved harder. Me him and Ryan are brothers that went through things that other people would not be able to with stand, but it made us stronger. Life was hard sometimes but we had "us" so it was good. Dusty was a light that burned too bright and couldn't maintain that. Don't feel bad for Dusty ..feel bad for you for not living your life hands off the handle bars eyes closed like he did. Rest easy Dusty we got it from here ..in the words of Dusty ...LATERS— "
