“ Living next door to Carmen I had the honor to meet Mrs. Catino. The few times I saw her she was a delightful person with a kind, loving way. I am sorry I only learned yesterday of her passing. When she drew her last breath, she was out of death into life with our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. This is a wonderful hope that the family has and what a blessing, as I read the memories that she portrayed to friends and especially her children. What a God, what a promise!!

“ Upon moving into your long time friend's home, we were concerned about how you would feel about us making the changes we needed to make it OUR home. But your kind words gave us the confidence to call you our friend and we are eternally grateful. Your love and kindness and sweet soft voice echo in our minds and hearts. Your smiling face and hugs were always so welcomed and although we miss you, we know that another angel will always be on our shoulders, guiding us through life. Your wisdom and joy are an inspiration and your name will be called upon often as we continue our life journey. Smile on all of us and we will cherish the gift of God's love through our memories of you. May you know the peace and joy of heaven and all the promises of eternal life.

Love,

“ Mom you were my mother, my teacher, my comforter, my children 's grandmother and great grandmother, and my best friend. I hold everything you told me close at heart. One cannot measure our depth of sorrow. Our peace comes from knowing without a doubt you are at the side of Jesus and have earned the most beautiful golden wings.
