I met Edmund RAPP at Presteick Tennis Club when I played on a League Team with his wife, Sue. They were both do friendly in welcoming me to the Prestwick Tennis Club. Edmund was such s gentleman on and off the court and showed so much class. He still believed in wearing all white and he was always nice and friendly .

“ It was such an honor to have gotten to know Edmund. A self admitted skeptic of chiropractic he quickly became one of my biggest fans. He was a humble, caring, and grateful man. He had an amazing spirit about him. I will miss him very much and think of regularly! All my thoughts, prayers, and love to his entire family! Dr. Anthony

“ As a new member of the Prestwick Tennis Fraternity, I may be Ed's newest and latest friend. I was in the M=W=Friday 9 am round robin. When I first saw Ed, I thought, "What is this old "old" guy doing playing with us young "old" guys. Ed quickly showed that he was still a good doubles player with a quick wit and feisty style.

He quickly reprimanded any of his younger partners if they attempted to play balls that were "his". He could handle it, and even played some tough hits with a nice blocking action from his well tuned racquet.

Ed's game reminded me of the days in the early 70's when a big crowd would gather to watch Bobby Dodd and Bitsy Grant play all the young hot shots at the Northside Tennis Center. Smart tennis with dinks and curves and blocks usually beats people running around playing power tennis.

So Ed, you left us one day early. You missed your game on Friday, and I just found my favorite old racquet so I could compete with you. I liked the sound and action of your racquet tuned to max power for your slower style. If you're not going to be using it up in Heaven, we could put it to good use here on the Courts.

So now we're looking for a feisty Fourth who can play, and talk a little trash. Only "experienced people" need apply. That's my favorite Don Corleone quote. Rest in Peace, Ed, unless they have you paired up with someone in your new existence.
