“ Erik was and still is a main character in my life. He was the one I would call when I was feeling happy or down. We celebrated our joys and good moments and we leaned on each other through tough times. I still speak to him even though he has passed on. He has left behind his wisdom because I can still imagine what his response would be and I find comfort in that.

Erik loved the ocean and we took a few trips to key west and he would just light up! it was his happy place! i will always remember the days and nights we spent exploring there. and how his sweet tooth was never satiated! if you're ever in key west order yourself a key lime pie and remember Erik. We will miss you Erik and the light you brought to our lives, but that light was so bright that like a star it will continue to shine on forever.
