“ My prayers go out to Sister Duncan's family. God will guide you through your grief. I know you all are sad and happy at the same time. Sad because her presence is not here with you all but happy because she is present with the Lord. My grandmother used to tell me that when she was called home for us to rejoice and not to worry about her because no matter how much she loved us and she loved us tremendously she would want to stay in the presence of the Lord. This always made me sad but as I have grown over the years into a mature christian I certainly understand this. They are now where we look forward to going.
