Does leaving these messages help you sleep @night?? Not forgotten, really? Because you damn sure forgot him when he was alive!!! Now you're feeling guilty, surprising didn't realize someone so heartless could have feelings. Calling yourself a dad is a privilege, it's a privilege someone like you doesn't deserve to call themselves!! You were never there, not even when you had the chance and left him standing looking out the window for 3 hours excited to finally get to know you. So don't act now like you give 2 shi when you don't have to prove it! To say things stood in the way and didn't allow you is BS!! At the end of the day if it helps you feel better about the non dad you were, please go ahead because my brother didn't loose no sleep over your sorry ass!!!!!!!

I ain.T gonna get into a slanging match with you or anyone else you forget who was there when you and ian were brought into this world so don.T YOU give me your crap the mess that was caused was only caused by one person and you need to grow up and look a little closer to home you had no complaints of my fathering skills when you lived in Corby so once again grow up and don.T judge someone you don.T know

John Simpson - March 31, 2019 at 10:23 AM

Look sir, no slanging match here, I'm stating facts!! You get on here and leave comments, that are not only empty and completely not heart felt, but are disrespectful to the people who were there for Ian and did give a damn about Ian! You can blame whomever you need to blame to help you sleep at night! As far as being in Corby the only thing I can remember,(that are in my own memory) don't paint a very good picture of any skills you think you had!! But let me please make one thing completely clear this has nothing to do with any of that or anything else that happened 37 years ago or what followed because it worked out better for everyone!!!! This only in response to you leaving comments portraying to be a grieving dad over a deceased son,that facts show had absolutely nothing to do with a son you never cared to know! Regardless of what happened before when he came to England as an adult and reached out to you, you were a NO SHOW! Left him standing like a fool looking at the window,waiting and hoping for a chance to meet John Simpson and hoping for a chance to spit in the face of the man, the one that never gave a damn about him, the one who was responsible for the shitty memories he did have from being a youngin in England. So good thing you stayed true to your game and didn't give a damn enough to show up! Again all worked out for the best! Again don't have to defend or explain past we're all GLAD!! Just don't act like you care now!!!

It's been a while since I posted anything on this page i felt it was best to leave things as they were as Johnathan you have a lot to say for yourself and your little brother but as time goes by the truth normally comes to the surface and i believe that truth has come maybe not to you but to me as I have recently been informed from a very good source that like you Ian Simpson wasn't my son so your right I didn't have the right to come onto this page and leave messages but from my point of view i always believed he was my son I'm sorry if I caused you any anguish about these posts you were right about me not meeting your brother when he came to England but the facts are who ever sent him here and got his accommodation sent him to somewhere he should not have been but hey the blame can be mine no probs this is life take care john
