“ I was lucky to know Jackie during Piedmont Jr. High and Central High - she was always a very lovely and sweet person. May God grant her family peace, his amazing comfort and grace during these days of saying goodbye. Jackie, you have earned your angel wings, so fly high as you travel through heaven.

Deborah Rogers - August 15, 2017 at 04:19 PM

*My family say I'm angry – they are so right I'm angry because this was my week, my time with my mother – my rock
I'm angry because she didn't answer the phone
I'm angry that a kind neighbor had to find her
I'm angry because I had to hear "On NOOO, Jackieeeeeeeee".
I'm angry someone else was sitting in her chair, taking up her space,
breathing her air
I'm angry mom didn't quit smoking
I'm angry my siblings are divided
I'm angry mom loved to dance, but rarely got the chance
I'm angry mom chose to stay in Conway, near dad, instead of near her kids*

*Mom, so full of love, would not me to be angry.
She would sit me down, hold my hand and ask "what's going on?"
She would call again tomorrow or the next day, just to check in.*

Yeah, I'm angry, who will be there for me?

She would want us to find the love she so lavishly bestowed on her children and grandchildren.

I'm hopeful for what Mom has left behind. I'm hopeful to leave the anger and move towards love.

Mom was all about love – not anger.

So my dear siblings, you may say I'm angry, but it's out of love.

Let's be kind to one another – for our beautiful and wonderful mom.
