“ Frankie Lewis was one of the hardest working bank people I know When most executives are reading the WALL STREET paper Frankie could be found at " Jay's" Store early in the morning talking to the working class people on their way to work. But that's just Frankie he showed us that we are all the same no matter who we think we are. He helped alot of people and we can all learn by his example. We all will miss him and think of him often. God bless his family and give them strength in coming days and months.##imported-begin##John L. Lambert, Jr.##imported-end##
