“ I met Jason threw a friend. They were best friends. They rode bikes together. when I met Jason and Liz the summer of 2017-2018 I just knew Jason was a force to be reconed with. His love for her riding and of course USC football was crazy. He had a heart of gold. When college football came around you should have seen us lol. Being a Georgia girl well I was UGA and he of course was USC so when they played each other it was insane to say the least lol. I remember me him his wife Liz and my then boyfriend going to Cherry Grove to sharktooth hunt on their bikes. He was suh a amazing kind and loving person. R.I.P. Jason u will defently be missed! :(

“ Just the other day I thought of you Jason. Even though I hadn't seen you in 16 years. I typed your name into google to see if you had Facebook. When your obituary popped up my heart dropped and my eyes began to flow with tears... :( I met you at Hargrave Military Academy in 1997-98 in Chatham VA. I was only 14 but God I loved you the instant I laid eyes on you!!!!!! Then came the awful day that you were leaving going back home! I cried and cried and Momma and Daddy promised to carry me to see you that summer. It then became a every summer thing. We picked up as if we were never apart! Your daddy called me your "Mountain Woman", even though I tried to tell him there were no mountains where I lived.... :) I'm sorry we lost touch and I see you married and had a children. I don't know what happened and I don't know the details, maybe its better that I don't. You were my first love! My love goes to your wife and precious child. Your Mother and Father and Sisters. Heaven surely gained an angel when you entered those gates. I love you and will always think of you! Now... as you would always say... "put that bird back in that cage"

Love,

Holly
