“ Bob was an extended member of our family, and over the years we have grown to love him like he was our "pops" too. Before I was married in to this family, I had the pleasure of witnessing first hand the beautiful relationship that Bob and his wife, Phyllis shared. They were regular clients in the hair salon where I worked for about 5 years. I used to watch with a smile, at how precious their love was for one another was. When Phyllis had fallen ill, Bob waited on her hand and foot and treated her like the fine woman she was. Every week he would bring her in to the salon where he would, patiently open every door, push her in her wheelchair, and gingerly pick her up and place her in the shampoo chair when necessary. It was always a conversation topic in our salon, as all of us hairstylist admired their bond and found comfort in seeing the warmth that radiated when they leaned on one another for support. I very well remember thinking to myself, I hope to find a love like that one day...little did I know, years later, I would marry into this family full of kind hearted-loving people. I know that the love The Morgans shared throughout their lives will live through in each of their children and grandchildren. To the entire family...I love each of you and will continue to keep you all in my prayers. Please let me know if there is anything Joey and I can do to help. God Bless##imported-begin##Crystal & Joey Andrews##imported-end##
