“ Wanda and family, My heart aches today because I cannot be there with you to share in the memorial service for Bill. I so wanted to see all the family but decided that my presence there would be more of a problem than comfort. Bill was my big brother and he picked me up when I fell, dusted me off and taught me so much. He helped me learn to skate, ride a bike, and so many other life skills. We laughed together, played together and cried when we lost our little brother, Jimmy. Bill holds a place in my heart that no one else could ever fill and the memories will always warm my heart and comfort me. Please take good care of each other and know that I love you now and always. “ GD - So many memories there is not enough room here to write about. You were loved greatly by all who knew you. As your granddaughter, I'd describe you as a consummate professional in every way. A master of the written word, never seen without a book in your hand or your back pocket. The quickest person I knew at a crossword puzzle. Always had a stash of hard candy, double bubble gum, frozen snickers bars, and tortilla chips somewhere - either under the driver's seat of your car or in the snack drawer in the kitchen. Strong enough for a bear hug when you needed it, but gentle enough for a bedtime story. Taught me how to play golf, speed read, and shuffle cards like a dealer in Vegas. An avid sports fan, supporting his Mountaineers to the end. Thanks for the memories Grandpa - we'll miss you terribly. love Jessica###imported-begin###Jessica Jackson###imported-end##
