“ I met Malcolm when I was a very young woman. I will always remember him as a most unusual man with many interests and great passion. One time I saw him, much later, he was engaged in one of the things he loved to do and did well--grow azaleas. I saw him again at the gala closing of The Bombay India Restaurant, a favorite place for him, my husband John and me. His gusto was infectious. I will miss him.##imported-begin##Andrea Talbutt##imported-end##

Malcolm was my first mentor and friend. We, Malcolm and others in his sphere, met at the Bombay many times. I miss him and The Bombay.
