“ For almost eighty-seven years she left her imprint upon those she touched. Some called her feisty; others referred to her as simply opinionated. She loved the saying in her kitchen, "If Momma ain't happy, ain't nobody happy." A spirit like Mom's was not one to be broken, just enjoyed. Ok, sometimes just tolerated. Either way, Priscilla Louise Cole Meeks was my mom. She sacrificed so that her son and daughters could have what they needed, or just wanted. She waited patiently while Dad spent easily 15,000 hours of his life on the golf course. Mom was devoted to Dad. With her final breaths she was trying to tell me to take care of "daddy". I will miss my mother.###imported-begin##Dene Meeks###imported-end##
