“ Beth, Mike, Michael and Jonathan, I have no words to help you but the following is from a card Ben recieved when Holly Passed. I liked it and Ben let me have it. Hallmark no longer has this card so I decided to put the message here. I love you all. I'll bet you've had about enough of people telling you how strong you are and how great you're doing during this awful difficult period in your life. Maybe you'd rather hear someone say how much this sucks, how outrageous and unfair it is. Maybe you'd rather hear someone tell you that you don't have to be strong all the time. Or that it's definitely okay to curse fate and throw a tantrum or two. So here I am to tell you all that stuff and more, to let you know where I stand, which is right in your corner. There's no right way or wrong way at a time like this. However you work through this thing is immaterial to me. All I care about is that you ask for what you need, lean on those who love you, and try to trust me when I say that you'll come out the other side. Also, the Deborah thing is sooo..perfect.###imported-begin##Aunt Denise###imported-end##

“ I met Matt a couple years ago with mel. He always wanted to help someone no matter how far or how long he would have to travel to get there. There was one time i will never forget and Matt stood by my side. Melanie and I were in a car accident and she called Matt and in a matter of minutes i remember looking and here he comes with his arms wide open and the biggest smile on his face. Thats the kind of person he was. He never turned his back from you he gave all his love to everyone and I for one appreciated all the little and large things he has done for me and all the others. He was a good man and i will miss him dearly. To the family you are in my prayers. Im sorry for your loss he was truly a blessing in this world.##imported-begin##Erin Cooper##imported-end##

“ Matt was like a big brother to me. I will miss all of his "Hey little sis whats up?" phone calls. He was one of the best friends you could ever ask for.
