“ I always loved seeing Merrill at church sitting next to his sweet wife Jualine. I knew I was looking at a devoted husband and a kind man. I know he will be missed.

“ Merrill was a stranger the first day we met and left a friend. One day, I set two chairs out in front of my garage, it was a bright and sunny day, the kind of day that made you feel good. Merrill came across the street and just sat down, we spent over an hour talking about cars, that was his passion, I will never forget that time! I will cherish it forever!

Merrill, I am sorry I never had a chance to say "Good Bye", You were a good person. May you rest easy, and watch over us all. You will truly be missed.

“ Merrill was always friendly and made you feel at home when visiting in their home.

You could see the way he loved Jualine when you saw him looking at her across the room. He as a good neighbor and a wonderful husband. He will be missed.
