“ My thoughts go out to your family. On behalf of the remaining Junkin clan in Washington state, I'd like to share that although we weren't able to visit while Frosty was feeling well, we did reconnect through email messages and have had fun conversing for the past few years. He liked to tease my unwavering support for the Seahawks even though we both knew their chances are always slim.... Hopefully I will have a chance to spend some time with Dot or Lucia and ask them to tell me stories of my dad Art. Not able to fly out like we thought but Pam and I are holding your thoughts in our prayers. Brian, Mishara, Micara, Hailey, Paige, and Chessa Junkin.##imported-begin##Brian Junkin##imported-end##

“ I was one of the few employees of the Mutual Fire Insurance Association that was also retired from a career in the military. Frosty and myself often shared thoughts and memories which only those who had similar experiences could appreciate. My wife Ethel and Claire also found comfort in talking to each other for the same reason. I know that Frosty's family had to endure years of worry and concern because of the chronic illnesses and disabilities which he endured. Your worry and sorrow during all these years was known to him and he wished he had not burdened you with this problem. All my thoughts and sympathy and those of my wife are with you at this time. “ Frosty was one of those rare folks who one could always depend on! In the early days of the South Strand Republican Club, I spent many hours with him - but my favorite memory is when the two of us sat together in his car for an hour, eating donuts and sharing stories while waiting for ANYone to show up and help us pick up trash for Adopt-A-Highway. No one ever did - but the time spent together was better than had we hit the highway. God Bless Frosty and his family!##imported-begin##Tom & Jaci Herron##imported-end##

“ Olin was my big brother and I never knew him as Frosty but I knew others did. He was a loving brother and was always considerate of me. He and I had become closer by phone since Clare's departure from us. I enjoyed the moments we had sharing family memories and just communicating with him. I will miss hearing his strong voice on the phone and the love we shared. Just recently we shared some memories of home and family which I will cherish. We have lost a human life but heaven has received an angel. I will always love and miss my big brother. Jim and I will be thinking of him and his family for a long, long while.###imported-begin##Jim and Lucia Scholle###imported-end##
