Myrtle Beach...

Reverend PARVIZ ASHOORI, 81, was surrounded by his family when he moved into his Heavenly mansion on Tuesday, May 19, 2020.

Parviz was an active member of White Savannah Free Will Baptist Church in Conway. He loved God and was passionate about reading the Bible. His favorite way to relax was to read God's Word and meditate on the truths he found therein.

Parviz was a family man who loved spending time with family. He loved to eat, and Persian food was his first choice. He took pleasure in telling others about how Persian cuisine is superb and unforgettable. He also loved Persian music and treasured the time he spent with his sisters, listening to Persian "oldies".

Preacher Parviz is survived by his wife of 52 years, Ellen Cole Ashoori; three sons, Reza(Nancy), Amir (Cathy) of California and Ramene (Sabrina) of Myrtle Beach; eight grandchildren, Nichole, Dana, Garret; Amir Ashoori II and Tayler Ashoori of California; Sydney, Charlotte and Max Ashoori of Myrtle Beach; and great granddaughter, Isabella, of California; two sisters, Farzaneh Sharifi (Shamim) and Fattaneh Fagan (Bill) of Marlboro, Massachusetts; Special In-laws: Marion and Wanda Bellamy, of Myrtle Beach;

Robert Knight and Barbara St. Louis of California; Joe Cole, Elton and Barbara Cole of Oregon; Janie Perlenfein of Tennessee and countless nieces and nephews, extended family and friends. Parviz was preceded in death by his parents, Habibolah Ashoori and Molook Moavenian, and three younger brothers.

Parviz was born in Ghoochan, Iran on February 8, 1939. He came to America in 1967 to attend college in California. He married Ellen Cole in 1968 and they raised three sons in California. Parviz retired from General Motors in Santa Fe Springs, California after 25 years then moved to Myrtle Beach. He worked for Walmart in North Myrtle Beach and retired after 14 years.

In 1980, Parviz was ordained as a Free Will Baptist minister. He preached in various Free Will Baptist churches in California, as well as North and South Carolina, preaching revivals and filling in for other ministers.

“ I so wish I could have been with my family in South Carolina to say good bye to my Uncle Parviz. My thoughts are with you all as you say your goodbyes to such a wonderful man.. A Godly man, a man full of advise and wisdom. He could light up a room with his smile, warm hearts with his delightful accent. I will miss his generosity, competitive spirit and contagious laughter. Love was shown in the way he cared for his family and his love of God was always first; preaching and sharing the word with all he came in contact with. My Uncle Parviz and Aunt Ellen, raised three wonderful sons. Teaching them respect, manners, honesty, morals, kindness and above all to love God. All of these qualities were exhibited by the way my Uncle Parviz lived his life. I will miss him, but I know I will see him again. No good byes, just simply, until we all get together again.
