Richard "Dick" Mermon

Murrells Inlet

Richard "Dick" Mermon, 88 of Murrells Inlet, passed away Monday, July 16, 2018.

Born in Valley Stream, NY, he was a son of the late John and Anna Mermon. As a young man Dick worked as a clown diver, putting himself through college to earn a degree in Landscape Horticulture, but became a police officer instead. He also worked as a wedding photographer, professional crow hunter, sales representative for a fishing tackle company, a book author and hunting and fishing writer/photographer. Dick was a wonderful wildlife artist and built custom fishing rods. He is preceded in death by his wife, Carol Patricia Mermon; son, Robert Brian Mermon; and brother, John Mermon. Survivors include his daughter, Patricia A. Marshall; and son, Rich Mermon. Services will be held at Malverne Funeral Home in Malverne, NY. Visit www.goldfinchfuneralhome.com to sign an online guestbook. Goldfinch Funeral Home, Beach Chapel is charge of the arrangements.

“ I was sorry to find out about Dick's passing. He and I shared a common bond for the love of the sport of Crow Hunting. When I ran across my signed copy of his book "Crow Shooting Secrets" as well as his 2nd book of the same title but Vol 2(that he sent me in 1998), I did a Google search and found that Dick has been deceased for almost 2 years. My condolences and prayers go out to his family. Respectfully,
James Harkreader A fellow life-long Crow Hunter
