“ Bob was one of the first real father figures I ever had. He was so smart and funny, almost everything he said could make you laugh! When Britney and I were dance partners, he used to grade me on a point system. Giving me attaboys when I did something right, and subtracting when I messed up. I don't think I ever got into positive numbers. He was constantly on the go, always going to different places to work. But when he was home, there was more life in the house, he made everyone smile! I'll miss him deeply and think about all the good things he shared with me. Prayers for everyone in this tough time! ”

“ Frannie and I became friends when I moved to Millinocket in 1962. We were very close during the next few years. He was a great guy who never met a stranger. Most of our exploits were X rated but within the law! Over the past year we spoke on the phone on a few occasions. The last time was a few months ago. We enjoyed our conversations. Thoughts and prayers to the entire family. Bill Fisher, Orlando, FL
