“ Ron and I were roommates when we were stationed in Massachusetts while in the Air Force. Ron is a cherished idol of mine, as we got along so well and spent so much time together in the same room. Well. not so where we got stationed, at Westover AFB just outside Springfield. I still miss the great guy after all these years. I lived in Massachusetts before joining the Air Force and rarely spent a weekend at the base location. I had a girlfriend nearby (near Boston, and I and a bunch of other guys from that area would spend weekends back home. Ron didn't get to do that, the trip to his hometown being so much farther from our base. I still reminisce frequently about our friendship and I'm certain I'll cherish his memory often until my own passing.

“ Pat and family

It's times like these when words cannot express how sorry we were to hear about Ron. Ron was a doting husband, father and grandfather. I would see him playing ball with the grandchildren while others looked on including me. Oh how he loved you all. He was always doing something, never idle. His thoughts were always about you, Pat. Whenever I'd catch him outside, I'd ask how were things and he'd say everything was fine. Pat is doing well. He was a very helpful neighbor. I remember when I called him to come help me lift my stepmom off the floor and onto the chair, he said I'll be right there. He came with a strap that my father has used several times since that day. Neighbor helping neighbor. He was a wonderful man and I was honored to call him my friend.

My condolences and deepest sympathies to you all,

“ *So much to miss about Ron
His kind conversations
His stories about Dad
Watching him play ball with his grandsons
All his help whenever I'd call
I said to Ron many times
What would Ms Pat do without you
His reply was always the same
"What would I do without Ms Pat"
My Mother "Ron is a great husband and such a good man"
My Father once said to me
"GOD hand picked the two best couples to be our neighbors "
There are many heartwarming stories starring Ron a life so beautifully lived
Rest In Peace
