“ To Scotty, Debby and to the rest of the Beaver family: We are very sorry for your loss in trying times like these it is important to remember that although we mourn because we will miss seeing the person that they will still see us and be with us -that the loss is only on our end. We cannot come to the Father until we complete this life and it's tasks but to enter the Fathers realm - what a glorious day of celebration that must be for us! In God's time you will of course be reunited and that period in between is just a blink in the scope of eternity where prayerfully we all shall live forever and ever with the Father, Son, and the Holy Ghost. You are extremely blessed to have a war hero as a dad Scotty - your dads generation is certainly called the greatest for a good reason. His generation was raised through the Great Depression so he learned the value of a dollar, the importance of reliance on God, neighbors, and country. Morals and character was as strong as iron and they were directly responsible for the rest of the world looking upon us as a nation with envy and respect. To have someone from that generation as a parent was surely a blessing unlike any other. I can see it in the way you conduct yourself and the way you taught your own. God Bless you all and we pray that your time of mourning is lessened and that your joy for him passing onto a better place than this where he is in the company of saints comes quickly. If there is anything we can do please let us know. -Brian and Faith Parsons

Psalm 23

1The LORD is my shepherd; I shall not want.

2He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: he leadeth me beside the still waters.

3He restoreth my soul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake.

4Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.

5Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

*6Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life:
and I will dwell in the house of the LORD for ever.*
