“ Hi my sweet baby girl. I hope you was looking down and seen all the people who came for you. I have been having a bad couple of days. I miss you so much that it literally hurts. I know everyone says you are in a better place but what better place to be then with mommy, daddy, and your brother. I am so scared for what the future holds because i can't even get through a day now. Now i hold the teddy bear that you are in and i cry and cry because i should be holding you and hearing your cries instead of my own. I know they say it is good to write what you are feeling in a diary (in a way i am) but who would have thought that my diary would be on my little girls obituary wall. I am so angry and mad at the world and more importantly at God. Everyone says maybe i should go talk to someone (a psychiatrist or a support group) but why would i want to talk to someone about how unfair it is that you were taken away from us. I don't. Your daddy says that i need to get better for him and your brother but i have tried and can't succeed. It is not fair. We had your name picked out as soon as we found out we were having a girl and we already starting having all the dreams and plans for you. We were so excited. Its not fair and i can't see the reasoning behind it. I keep asking myself what could i have done different or what if the doctor could have done something different. I am your mother and i couldn't protect you. All i keep having repeated in my head it's what the doctors kept saying "she is a healthy baby girl and her heartbeat is strong". What happened then. Love you so much. :( . I have so many things around the house that remind me of you and then i break down. I am so Sorry i couldn't protect you. I hope you forgive me,

“ There are no words....Our hearts are heavy and filled with love for you and yours. We don't always understand why things happen, we just have to trust and believe and have faith in the bigger plan. I can only imagine the pain a Mother feels when losing a child...but I know the pain a child feels when losing a Mother. My Mama known to all as "Grandmother" left this world just minutes before Skylar. Grandmother worked the better part of her life at the hospital in the newborn nursery. She was there with you...and she was there for Skylar <3 There's not a doubt in my mind that it all was planned some how to be that way. We Love you very much ...hold on tight...the road we travel is not always easy but if we keep our faith it will take us where we need to be. You all are in our hearts and on our minds...Our prayers are that peace and love surrounds you today and all the days to come <3 Love you forever <3

“ I am having a bad day today My sweet baby girl but i guess i will have plenty of those. I miss you so much. It means so much that some of your family is coming down to say goodbye. We have a family that fell in love with you before they even seen you. I was thinking this morning about your brothers birthday and how you would have shared it with him. I keep asking why and i haven't found the answers yet. They keep telling me and your daddy that God needed you. I don't see why because he has all kinds of angels so why would he take mine. Daddy says you are in a better place because you had health problems and he didn't want you to suffer your whole life. I can say this about your daddy, he is a lot less selfish then i am. I am completely selfish because i would rather have you here even if you had health problems. They want me to talk to someone about what happened and you but i don't see why or how that will help. It won't bring you back. We love you so much baby girl. You are a daddys girl and always will be.

“ Ashley, Frank, Joseph, and your entire family have my deepest condolences.i knew for years how long you wanted another child, especially a daughter. God needed one more baby angel to complete his January garden and after searching far and wide, He spotted Skylar. God saw how exquisite and divine she was and wanted her for Himself. Even though the pain is gut wrenching, please take solace in knowing that she is already in the place we are all striving to get to but some of us won't make. Skylar not being here does not mean that she isn't love or celebrated it just mean more people are doing it. whenever you feel a slight brush on your cheek out of thin air, that is your daughter giving you a peck. Or when you see a carnation in bloom, that is Skylar growing in the garden in Heaven

“ I love you so much my sweet baby girl. It is so hard everyday i wake up and knowing i am not going to hear you cry or see your beautiful smile and face. Your daddy says you looked like me. Your brother misses you and wishes he could have seen you. I asked your brother if he wante. To send something to heaven with you and your sweet brother went into his room and came out with this bear that sings a beautiful song and it holds a heart saying "my Guardian angel". We will miss you and you will never be forgotten. We promise that we will celebrate for you on January 7th every year. It is so hard for me, daddy, and your brother everyday. Your brother just asked why he can't see you. We were so excited about you but you left this world way to early. It made my day thought when i got to see you and hold you. It is just so hard sometimes to even get out of bed or do anything. I feel like i go through the motions but i am not there. I just want to tell yo. How important you are to the whole family and trust me you have a big family. There is going to be family in heaven waiting for you my little Angel.

“ Ashley, Frankie, Joe and little Skylar,
"There is nothing a parent or grandparent can do to take away the pain and the sorrow. Just remember that when walking with God and there is but one set of footprints in the sand, it is He that will carry you.". There is already so much love for this little baby that it will stay in all of our hearts and she will always be a part of our lives. Though we may think of her and what may have been throughout our lives, we believe that she will feel each thought and all the love that we here on this earth feel for her. Every beautiful thing put on this earth by our Lord, every little beautiful flower that may humble you with it's beauty, every bird chirp or thing of beauty and wonder is a sign that your beautiful little girl will always be watching over you, and telling you so. Let it be a sign to you that Skylar felt your love, is with you, and always will be."
