“ I will always remember her years working at the court & her tremendous courage & grit as she fought her medical battle. We would talk when she came over to the PD side to get the mail. One day she was inconsolably heartbroken because her dog ran out of the house & was killed. She had so much love to give that I couldn't find the words to help her. I know she's surrounded by love in Heaven now - even by her little dog. I promise to always remember her & to bear witness to her wonderful life.
