“ Hi there can anybody help out me? I want an absolutely free MMORPG which has a wide range of gamers and they also (well many of them) can chat English. It is vital that the particular servers have a very massive amount gamers. I am looking for something like Diablo and also Wow. I am also not willing to give money as I only need time to kill nowadays. It's okay if the game cost nothing with premium content. I have looked a lot regarding MMORPGs but none of the web-sites definitely say the amount of players tend to be on-line. thanks much###imported-begin###best free mmorpg###imported-end###

“ When we started our meat business in 1986, Ted was the first salesperson Murco to take the time to talk with me. After a rather lengthy conversation, Ted suggested I go into the hardware business. Over the years we had kept in touch. Always looked forward to our annual Ohio State/Michigan wager. Usually Michigan would win the game, but not cover the spread. So Ted would have to send the money, but he would get the "bragging rights". And for Ted, the bragging rights were better than winning the bet. Both Peg and I always enjoyed chatting with Ted and will truly miss his calls and e-mails.##imported-begin##Bill and Peggy Welch##imported-end##

“ Dear Sam, \t I am so sorry to hear the sad news about Ted, I too share in your grief. Words are inadequate at times like these but I want you to know that you and your family are in my thoughts and prayers during this most difficult time. The first time I met Ted, was when I showed up at his office in Plainwell, MI. He said "I will dance at your daughter's wedding" if I would teach him to use his computer. I liked him instantly. We spent many hours together sitting in front of that computer, and would joke and give each other a hard time every chance we got. Even after moving to South Carolina, he would still call me whenever he needed help. I enjoyed those calls, he could always make me laugh. I am blessed to have had Ted as a friend, he was one in a million. I am going to miss him and those smiley faces he always used.##imported-begin##Toni Burnham##imported-end##

“ Hi Sam, Ted and I go back to St. Mary school in Marshall. I have so many fond memories of us. He had a wonderful singing voice and the nuns always gave him verbal rewards. I wanted those rewards also and ask Ted "How did you get your good singing voice". He replied: "By smoking cigarets" "Do you want to know how to smoke?" I said yes. We went behind his house in the shed and lit up a cigarette. I inhaled and passed out! I have so many more stories but time space will not allow it. “ Tears fell at the news of Uncle Ted's death. It is comforting to know that there is no more suffering and that he is in heaven looking down on all of us. Memories that have been created over the years will be treasures to share and keep in my heart forever. My most memorable times are the Christmas eve dinners, helping out at Petroff's Resteraunt, and the trip to Hilton Head Island. I still have the jewelery that Uncle Ted bought for me from the little shop in Charleston. Will be sending something special for you in the mail. Even though I cannot be there, please know that you are all in our prayers during this difficult time. All my love,##imported-begin##Jennifer Raymond##imported-end##

“ Dear Sam, please accept my condolences. I had no idea that Ted's health was so serious. We had been sending emails back and forth for a couple years. We often told each other jokes, and sent cartoons to each other. I know how you must miss Ted. I can see the both of you walking around the track at the Wellness center. It will take a lot of "getting used to" not having him around. I went through it when my wife died eight years ago. Please know that my prayers are with you and hope that they give you comfort.
