“ Pat Pitmon was a good man. I had the privilege of working with him at Schafer Distributing for a few years, then again a few years later at Yahnis Coastal. Hardworking, and always had interesting stories that could make your day better, or go by faster. I learned a lot from Pat in the time I spent with him, and will never forget him. I remember being in a Scotchman with Pat the day I found out my dad was having open heart surgery 500 miles away back home. When I got off the phone and told Pat what was going on, he huffed at me and said "Why are you still here, bubba?" I left from right there to head home to WV and my family and Pat finished my workday for me, calling me several times over the next few days to ask about my dad. Pat, you were one of a kind and you will be sorely missed by many. My condolences to Miss Sandy and the Pitmon family.

I can't say I remember alot about my uncle Pat. He moved away to the beach with sandy when I was probly 8 or 9. I can say I remember him takin me on his sales route in the beer van once, because of some circumstances unknown to me. He bought my my first ever banana split that day, and my first ever pickled egg. He knew the best places to get them. He taught me about the guns hangin on the wall in my Me-maw's house, something wich I think my dad (his elder brother, Mike Pitmon) knew very little about, so he taught me. He is the only way I kinda know of anything about my grand dad whom I never met (his father, Paul Pitmon, my nanesake) because my daddy always said Pat sounded like him. So to me he was my grand dad's voice, and manerisms. I remember him as fun, funny, cool, and nice. He always had the coolest cars when he came to visit (bandit edition 400 firebird comes to mind). I know my daddy loved him, and I'm thankful for what I know of him. I'm so sorry, Sandy, for the loss of your husband, and friend.
